REMOTE WORK

Rawan El-Komos (she/her) is an executive in the Federal Public Service and has been a public servant for almost 20 years. She is currently the Senior Director General of Corporate Services at the Public Prosecution Service of Canada (PPSC).

Rawan began her career with the Public Service in Halifax, which is where her family landed after immigrating from Egypt. She worked in Toronto for a very short period of time and moved to the National Capital Region (Ottawa) in 2004 and has been there ever since. Before her current role she always worked in Human Resources with her last role being the Head of HR at the PPSC. Rawan has been a team leader and supervisor since before joining the Public Service and has been in progressively more senior leadership roles for the last 14 years.

She has a strong passion for leadership and is known as an authentic and transformational leader with a commitment to people management and building high performing teams. She holds a Bachelor's Degree in Commerce (Marketing) from St Mary's University in Halifax, Nova Scotia. Rawan has also successfully completed a Masters Certificate in Public Sector Leadership from Carleton University.

Rawan is married and the proud mother of an 8 year old son, Anthony. She loves cooking, reading, travelling and spending quality time with her family and friends.
